AIG SCANDAL VS. ILL. TAX HIKE PROPOSAL

Money smackdown

You don't need to be a genius to see the economy's not so bright these days, but this week was especially brutal for people counting pennies. Lawmakers—and President Obama—fumed over American International Group's decision to award bonuses to employees after it received government bailout cash. Meanwhile, Gov. Quinn went to Springfield with a proposal for a tax hike. So which fiscal news caused the bigger fuss? It's time for another edition of RedEye's Faceoff!

AIG: Obama, lawmakers and pundits expressed outrage over news that AIG execs received $165 million in bonuses after it got bailout funds.

THE SCOOP

TAXES: Quinn on Wednesday outlined a proposal for a 50 percent increase in the state's income tax, along with a tripling of the current $2,000 personal deduction.

AIG: Obama said: "I mean, how do they justify this outrage to the taxpayers who are keeping the company afloat?"

BACKLASH

TAXES: Tribune columnist John Kass said Illinois taxpayers are "about to get their blood drained" by the hike.

AIG: The beleaguered company has become a poster child for government bailout woes.

BAILOUT LINK

TAXES: House Speaker Michael Madigan told Illinois Public Television that lawmakers must "minimize the impact of any extra burden on working families in Illinois."

BIGGER FUSS?

There's no overall winner, but this much is clear: This economy talk is heated!

RETURN OF THE $20M SUPERSTAR

JULIA ROBERTS BACK IN THE LIMELIGHT

From news services

Watch out, hot young things. Julia Roberts is taking the gloves off.

"I think the days of 'Oh, we hit 40 and we're [bleeped]!' are really over," the actress, who is 41, tells Entertainment Weekly in its March 20 cover issue. "Because the best actresses around who are working with consistency are Susan Sarandon, Frances McDormand, Meryl Streep, Annette Bening, Holly Hunter. They're not 30. And what's going on with girls in their 20s? Where are the movies that are motivated by the 20-year-olds? There aren't any! There certainly aren't as many as there were when I was in my 20s."

Roberts, who in the past has made a reported $20 million per picture, seems to be gearing up for the inevi-

ROBERTS THE LADY KILLER ...

What does Roberts, 41, think of younger starlets as her competition? The path to fame isn't the same as it was when she was starting out, she tells Entertainment Weekly. "Now people go from relative obscurity to being wildly famous and hugely overpaid and expectations are so out of proportion," she says, "and it's a huge disaster story." Here's RedEye's roundup of a few Hollywood bombshells who might just be nipping at Roberts' heels. REDEYE

AMY ADAMS

AGE: 34

BIG BREAK: She turned heads as the bubbly princess in Disney's cartoon-meets-reality tale "Enchanted."

LATEST PROJECT: After playing a nun in "Doubt," she's taking on the role of crime-scene cleaner in alt comedy "Sunshine Cleaners," which opened Friday.

WHAT ROBERTS HAS TO WORRY ABOUT:

You know Roberts' trademark sunny disposition? Yeah, Adams has that on lock. And she has the hair too!

EDGE: Adams

ANNE HATHAWAY

AGE: 26

BIG BREAK: In "The Princess Diaries" and "The Devil Wears Prada," she played lovable fish-out-of-water types.

table story line that will—and already has—come with her return to a leading role in “Duplicity,” which opened Friday, the first big film she has top-lined since 2003’s “Mona Lisa Smile.”

On Tuesday, an article in Newsweek asked if Roberts’ box-office reign might be over. The week before, Long Island newspaper Newsday wondered if the snarky romance-thriller about two former spies, which co-stars Clive Owen, can restore Roberts “to the luster she once enjoyed.”

“Everybody’s talking about ‘Oh, this is her comeback’ and ‘Ooh, she’s 41 and she’s working and not a lot of girls in their 40s are working,’” Roberts tells Entertainment Weekly. “Well, I’m baaaa-aaaack.”

Unlike her family-oriented peers (Bradgelina or TomKat), Roberts and husband Danny Moder have maintained a distinctly more selective media presence, and the Oscar-winning actress has emerged from her cocoon only to discuss her new film.

It’s a romance-thriller about two former spies—looking to score really big—in the underhanded world of corporate espionage. She and Clive Owen—the two were last seen viciously battling on-screen in 2004’s “Closer”—play charming scoundrels, madly in love but always unable to trust.

But that’s just work. What has pre-occupied Roberts for the last few years has been motherhood, and the evidence of her other focus—Henry, 2, and twins Hazel and Phineas, 4—were seen shortly before an interview with the L.A. Times, hanging out at the entrance of the hotel. “We move as this pack,” says Roberts. “This morning, Danny got them ready while I got me ready. Load them up in the car and here we come.”

These days, Roberts has the air less of a star who happens to be a mother and more that of a mother who occasionally dips her toe into the world of work. Even in a vaguely sterile hotel room, she emanates happiness, not the manufactured “I’m happy in this public situation” professional facade but that deep-in-your-bones calm that’s hard to fake.

She is almost (miraculously) wrinkle-free, as if age and gravity have decided just to skip this one person. The skin is tawny, the hair blondish for the moment, the only seeming minute flaw an infinitesimally small mole under one eye—only really apparent on a 20-foot screen. Roberts insists it has always been there, and she and her minions are forever telling the magazines not to airbrush it out because that “blands” out her face.

The radiant grin, the signature of films such as “Pretty Woman,” “My Best Friend’s Wedding” and “Notting Hill,” exists off-screen for the moment. While contemporaries such as Jennifer Aniston and Sarah Jessica Parker are still looking for love in movies, Roberts says: “I can’t play those parts anymore. ... It just doesn’t work for me at 41, with three kids and happily married. It doesn’t hold the same interest that it did for me once upon a time.”

NEWSDAY, L.A. TIMES, REDEYE, AP CONTRIBUTED.

SCARLETT JOHANSSON

AGE: 24

BIG BREAK: She got cozy with Bill Murray in indie fave “Lost in Translation.”

LATEST PROJECT: She was part of the ensemble cast of “He’s Just Not That Into You.”

WHAT ROBERTS HAS TO WORRY

ABOUT: ScarJo does both the popular (see “HJNTIY”) and the offbeat (see anything by Woody Allen), not unlike Roberts, who made a splash with a foul-mouthed Clive Owen in “Closer.”

EDGE: Roberts

KEIRA KNIGHTLEY

AGE: 24

BIG BREAK: Did somebody say “Pirates of the Caribbean?”

LATEST PROJECT: “The Duchess”
WHAT ROBERTS HAS TO WORRY

ABOUT: Not too much. Knightley has a winning smile and all, but she’s all about the period dramas.

EDGE: Roberts

REESE WITHERSPOON

AGE: 32

BIG BREAK: The offbeat comedy “Election” put her on the map.

“Legally Blonde” shot her into a different stratosphere.

LATEST PROJECT: She nabbed production credits on the Vince Vaughn vehicle “Four Christmases,” in which she also starred.

WHAT ROBERTS HAS TO WORRY

ABOUT: Witherspoon can really turn on the charm, but she lacks the down-to-earth quality Roberts has in spades.

EDGE: Roberts

OUT OF CHARACTER?

It isn’t easy being Julia Roberts, which may be why some of her most effective turns have come when she stepped off the celebrity grid.

NEWSDAY

PRETTY WOMAN (1990)

The Maxim magazine version of the adult movie. It had charm, the unctuous direction of Garry Marshall, and Roberts’ character, Vivian Ward, not only conquers her Prince Charming (Richard Gere), she turns him into a human. Sex and redemption. Never fails.

MY BEST FRIEND'S WEDDING (1997)

Interesting movie, inasmuch as Roberts was set up as the heroine, but in actuality was playing an awful person. Movie did a lot for Cameron Diaz.

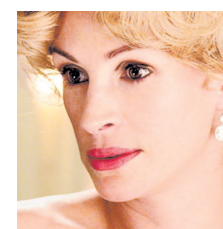

ERIN BROCKOVICH (2000)

Julia goes down-market, named best actress. More great attitude than great performance, but who can argue with Oscar?

CHARLIE WILSON'S WAR (2007)

She showed she could shine playing dislikable characters. In this case, she’s a long-legged Dallas belle.

DUPLICITY

!!! Mind games are rarely this fun. The latest from writer-director Tony Gilroy (“Michael Clayton”) sparkles with smarts and delights in confusing you. You’ll delight in chasing after the cons and figuring out who can’t be trusted and why. As rival spies and occasional lovers, Julia Roberts and Clive Owen trade banter like romantic jousts, while Gilroy moves the characters like chess pieces on a board even they don’t understand. It’s a splendid, lightweight lark, but it takes heavy cleverness to make a movie this breezily entertaining. MATT PAIS, METROMIX

BARRY BRECHEISEN FOR METROMIX

Goin' hog wild

By M. Kathleen Pratt

The scene: If there's one thing you always can count on to draw a crowd, it's bacon. The Publican, Fulton Market's 5-month-old beer-, pork- and seafood-focused spot, didn't start hyping its new brunch until a few days before the event—and even then, it was done mostly through nontraditional means, including a series of well-planned mentions on Twitter. But come this past Sunday, the huge, beer hall-like dining room was abuzz. Judging by the number of orders we saw coming out of the kitchen and landing on tables around us, those who rushed to be there opening weekend were united by a common love of bacon.

Though the Publican can be a scene on weekend nights, brunch looks to be a more casual affair. Noise levels are a bit lower than in the evening, and the large globe lights that set the place aglow after dark are turned off for a more subdued feel. Soon, whenever temps rise to tolerable levels, you'll be able to snag a table by the front windows and catch a morning breeze.

The cuisine: In matters of bacon, we expect nothing short of perfection from a place where a large black-and-white portrait of a hog lords over the dining room. The Publican didn't let us down. The meat is served two ways: One is more or less traditional, though lovingly house-cured, bacon. The other is called "Publican bacon" ($5), which basically translates to super-thick slabs of sweet, sticky pork belly braised in maple syrup, then glazed with more syrup before serving. Do not approach said bacon without a fork and knife.

The Publican gets a lot of attention for the kitchen's prowess with pork, rightly so. But the unheralded story is that this place also knows fish. The little ham quiche ($11), accompanied by smoked fish (varieties will change weekly) and a bright salad of frisee and crisp apples ($11), is a fine way to get the best of both worlds.

It's not all pork and fish, either. There's a rustic crock of wood-fired eggs, gouda and tart tomatoes spiced with harissa ($8); a light, crisp waffle with maple butter and pear compote ($7); and much more. Just don't forget your side of bacon.

Cruz shines in 'Elegy'

MCT

There always seems to be a shortage of good, mature movies for adults. And by "adult," we're not talking about porno films, but about movies that treat sex as both a natural part of human life and as just one part of that life.

"Elegy" is about a middle-aged professor (Ben Kingsley) who gets involved with a considerably younger woman (Penelope Cruz), but this time the result is provocative and moving. Out this week on DVD, "Elegy" has been made with great sensitivity by Spanish director Isabel Coixet ("My Life Without Me," "The Secret Life of Words") and screenwriter Nicholas Meyer, who wrote several of the "Star Trek" movies as well as "The Human Stain."

Kingsley's David Kepesh is a brilliant Columbia professor, an intellectual celebrity and a serial seducer of younger women—usually students—who gets around the university's sexual harassment code by going after only coeds who have completed his class. He sets his sights on a beautiful undergraduate, Consuela Castillo (Cruz), a woman in her mid-to-late 20s from a Cuban family. But instead of Consuela becoming just another conquest for Kepesh, whose usual methodology is to educate and mentor his young mistresses in matters of culture and sexuality, she begins to affect him as much as he does her.

"Elegy" takes several dramatic turns that will not be mentioned here, but at every step the authenticity of Kingsley and Cruz prevent the story from becoming obvious in its portrayal of a May-December romance.

Groom Lake

Now that "Boston Legal" has ended, where will we get our William Shatner fix except in those PriceLine commercials? How about in "Groom Lake," a 2002 sci-fi film the great captain developed, directed, produced and starred in? Amy Acker (recently—and briefly—seen in Joss Whedon's "Dollhouse" TV series), Dan Gauthier ("Melrose Place"), Duane Whitaker ("Pulp Fiction") and Dick Van Patten ("Eight Is Enough") also are featured. JIM CARNES, MCT

Vampire Secrets

In the wake of the "Twilight" movie release, A&E has its own bit of "twilighy" entertainment in the documentary

"Vampire Secrets." This fascinating 47-minute look at the history of the blood-suckers examines the ancient folklore common in different cultures around the world that have shaped our conception of these fangy fiends. "Vampire Secrets" is not rated.

SONG Rewind

Seth Walker

Seth Walker is a restless musical spirit. He began his career as a classically trained cellist and morphed into a bluesman. But even that doesn't fully describe the musical stew that Walker serves up as he roams across African-American musical forms, including blues, soul, gospel and jazz. His latest album, "Leap of Faith," released two weeks ago, and "Rewind" is dose of sweet Sam Cooke-styled poppy soul.

Based on author Terry Pratchett's book series "Discworld," this uneven British import is one fantasy I don't want to have. When failed wizardry student Rincewind (David Jason) is assigned to guide bumbling tourist Twoflower (Sean Astin) around the city-state of Ankh Morpork, they encounter evil wizards, dragons, barbarians, a flying space turtle and a star that threatens to destroy Discworld. Unfortunately, some second-rate effects and awful writing make their adventures jump from silly to exciting to dull. CURT WAGNER, REDEYE

ALBUM The Script

The Script

The Script sounds like a nice enough band, led by singer Danny O'Donoghue's pretty, malleable vocals, which are best displayed on its debut single, "The Man Who Can't Be Moved." Unfortunately, on the Irish trio's debut, "The Script," it sounds like a band that gets moved too easily, one that's been cobbled together by industry execs' suggestions and focus-group findings. The band is like The Fray, only Irish, with even less edge.

I LOVE YOU,
MAN (R)

You'll love this movie, man

It's not just a juvenile insult; realtor Peter (Paul Rudd) literally has no friends. When his fiancée Zoë's (Rashida Jones) friends warn her that a man with no friends will become too clingy, Peter sets out on a variety of frequently uncomfortable man-dates to find a pal and maybe a best man. Of course, Zoë feels left out after Peter hits it off with Sydney (Jason Segel) and the two start doing seemingly everything together.

The buzz: Director/co-writer John Hamburg didn't exactly impress anyone with the gross-out clichés of his last directorial effort, "Along Came Polly." But the can't-miss combo of Rudd and Segel (who worked together on "Knocked Up" and "Forgetting Sarah Marshall"), an all-around awesome cast (also featuring Andy Samberg, Jaime Pressly, Jon Favreau, J.K. Simmons and Jane Curtin) and the awkwardness-embracing premise means "Love" sounds more like a Judd Apatow movie than "Polly" or Hamburg's other big writing efforts, "Meet the Parents/Fockers."

The verdict: Who knew Hamburg had it in him? Sure, Apatow would never write fringe characters as one-note as Joe Lo Truglio's "High-Voiced Guy" or Thomas Lennon's wounded gay man. But the stuff that's front and center in "I Love You, Man" is consistently hilarious. Rudd and Segel, an ideal comic pair, play off each other perfectly as a soft soul who never learned how to bond with dudes and the bro of all bros who's also just a legitimately good guy.

Space invaders

Situation: I have no storage space
Solution: Get rid of what you don't need; organize

As an apartment blogger, I've heard lots of creative storage solutions from packrats living in small spaces. There's the bookcase crammed two rows deep, the armchair stuffed with laundry and—my personal favorite—the oven that doubles as a shoe rack. The best piece of advice for anyone lacking storage is to get rid of whatever you don't absolutely need, love or use on a regular basis. After you've taken three carloads of stuff to the Goodwill and you're still short on space, there are ways to double the available storage in certain areas of your apartment.

Under-shelf baskets, cupboard shelving inserts and wall-mounted racks can create a surprising amount of extra room for dishes, pots and pans in the kitchen.

To create more room for your book collection, look for shelving that can double as another piece of furniture. Some units can be configured as a room divider or split up into a set of side tables.

Standard apartment closets often are underutilized since they don't come with much more than a rod and shelf. Maximize vertical space with a closet system that incorporates shelving or drawers above and below the clothing rod.

Here are a few products to up your storage space:

Elfa shelving
various prices
Elfa offers a wide range of mix-and-match shelving, although the components can add up to a high price tag.

Under-shelf baskets
$6.99-$8.99
The Container Store's shelf inserts have been a staple in my kitchen for many years.

Design Within Reach's Cubitac Shelving $46.75-$208.25
These units are only 10 inches to 13 inches deep, so they won't overwhelm a small apartment.

Obama quip sparks backlash

WASHINGTON The White House says President Obama realizes his talk show quip about the Special Olympics was a “thoughtless joke” and the group’s athletes deserve better.

White House press secretary Robert Gibbs on Friday dealt with the fallout from Obama’s appearance on Jay Leno’s “Tonight Show.” In his bantering with the host, the president equated his subpar bowling skills with the Special Olympics. Obama later apologized to the chairman of the Special Olympics before the show aired.

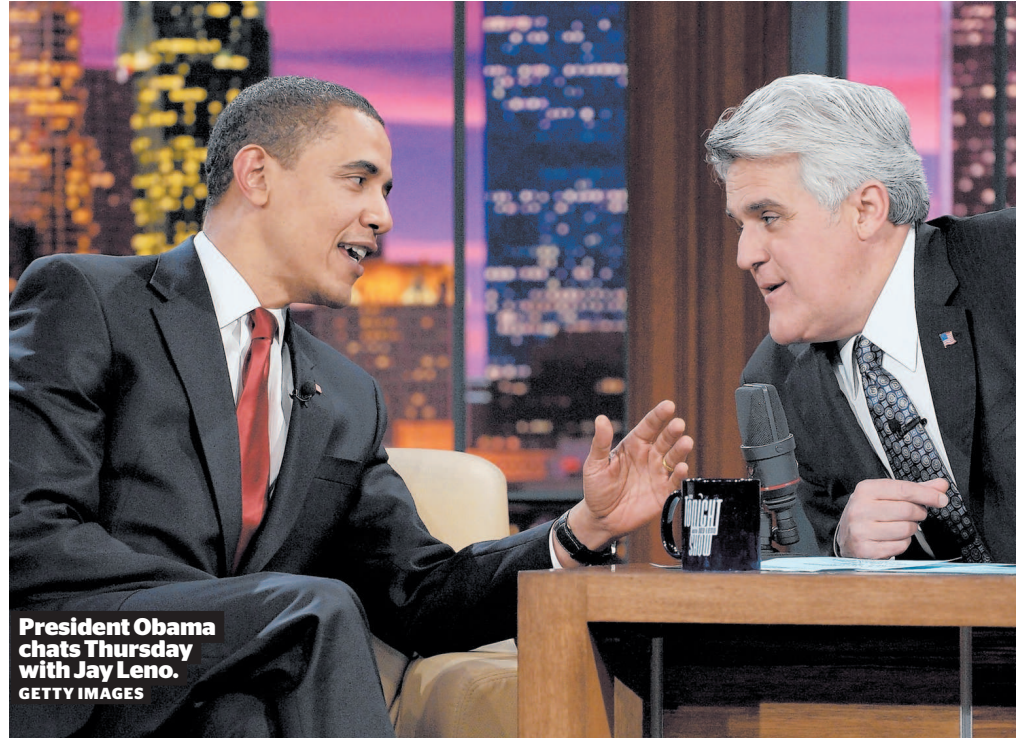

Gibbs said the president believes that the Special Olympics are “a triumph of the human spirit.” He added that Obama “understands that they deserve a lot better than the thoughtless joke that he made last night.”

California First Lady Maria Shriver said the president’s joke was hurtful, although she is sure he didn’t mean it that way.

Obama later called Shriver’s brother, Tim Shriver, the Special Olympics chairman, to apologize. The siblings’ mother, Eunice Kennedy-Shriver, founded the Special Olympics and has championed the rights of the mentally disabled.

Maria Shriver said the reaction to Obama’s joke shows there is still more work to do. She says laughing at such comments “hurts millions of people throughout the world.”

In other news, Obama will give the commencement address at the University of Notre Dame on May 17, Gibbs said Friday.

President Obama chats Thursday with Jay Leno. GETTY IMAGES

THE TRANSCRIPT

Leno: I imagine the bowling alley [at the White House] has been just burned and closed down.

Obama: No, no. I have been practicing all ...

Leno: Really? Really?

Obama: I bowled a 129.

Leno: No, that’s very good. Yes. That’s very good, Mr. President.

Obama: It’s like—it was like Special Olympics, or something.

Tax details hazy

Gov. Quinn acknowledged Friday that he is pitching his plan for higher income taxes by using smaller estimates than what taxpayers will actually owe the state because he’s counting a federal deduction that many Illinois taxpayers take.

Post office cuts

The Postal Service says it will offer early retirement to 150,000 workers, cut management staff and close six district offices. The agency has been battered by shrinking mail volume and rising costs. It lost $2.8 billion last year.

Burris defense fund

Confronted with anticipated legal bills of upwards of $400,000, Sen. Roland Burris (D-Ill.) is setting up a defense fund to solicit contributions to defray the costs of his struggle to gain his Senate seat, a Senate aide said.

Curry gets son

The grandmother of Eddy Curry’s son handed him over to the former Chicago Bulls player’s family late Thursday, hours after she disappeared with the child while vowing to defy a court order granting custody to Curry.

2 injured after Joliet casino complex fire

Two patrons were sent to the hospital with non-life-threatening injuries Friday after a large smoky blaze erupted at the Empress Casino complex in Joliet.

Fire personnel responded at about 10 a.m. to the two-alarm blaze, which reportedly was located in a dining section of the casino that is under construction. But the fire was heavy enough to warrant evacuating gamblers from the casino as a precaution and continued burning into the afternoon.

The fire appeared to have erupted in a kitchen on the south end of the casino, authorities said. Construction workers were remodeling the kitchen, adding new seating.

Firefighters during the afternoon were at the scene of the fire, which apparently was sparked by part of a $50 million renovation.

Wax ban scrapped

TRENTON, N.J. New Jersey is smoothing out differences over a plan to ban bare-it-all bikini waxing.

The state is reversing course on the proposal after angry salon owners complained about losing business ahead of swimsuit season.

The state Cosmetology and Hairstyling Board proposed banning so-called “Brazilian” bikini waxing after two women were hospitalized for infections following the procedure.

One of the women has filed a lawsuit, according to Jeff Lamm, a spokesman for New Jersey’s Division of Consumer Affairs, which oversees the cosmetology board.

But on Friday, Consumer Affairs Director David Szuchman effectively killed the plan. In a letter to the board, Szuchman says he won’t support the ban.

Our heckle: You're slipping, Bryant! You had only three dunks on "SportsCenter" last night!

Kobe's comeback: Is that even an insult? You know I'm the reigning MVP, right?

Our heckle: Only three championship rings? That's nothing to brag about in this city, sucka!

Kobe's comeback: I'm halfway to MJ. Right. On. Schedule.

Our heckle: Pass the A1 sauce, 'cause the Bulls are gonna chew you up like a Kobe steak!

Kobe's comeback: I knew Chicago was full of canni-Bulls.

Our heckle: Get out your umbrella, Kobe! Jo Noah's gonna make it rain!

Kobe's comeback: (Slowly shakes head in pity.)

Our heckle: Your coach hates you! Your coach hates you!

Kobe's comeback: Sorry, Chicago, you aren't getting Phil Jackson back.

What the heckle?

RedEye knows exactly what to say to get Kobe riled up

The Lakers are here Saturday, and you know what that means, Chi-town: It's time to get in Kobe Bryant's ear!

RedEye wanted to compile a list of heckles that Bulls fans could lob at L.A.'s star guard, but it turns out criticizing one of this generation's greatest basketball players isn't such an easy task.

These are the best insults we could muster (and the comebacks we'd expect to hear from Bryant).

KAKURO EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at rededeichig.com/answers.

SCRABBLE

Make a 2- to 7-letter word from the letters in each row. Add points of each word, using scoring directions at right. Finally, 7-letter words get a 50-point bonus. "Blanks" used as any letter have no point value. All the words are in the Official Scrabble Players Dictionary, 3rd Edition.

WHAT MAKES PAUL RUDD SO DARN LIKABLE?

The wait is over. After what seems like an eternity of promotions, Web clips, TV spots and grammatically correct movie posters (the word nerd in us really digs the comma, man), “I Love You, Man” finally is in theaters. The bromantic comedy, which opened Friday, is sure to do well in the box office. That’s thanks in no small part to leading man Paul Rudd, who plays a dude with no male friends who needs a best man for his wedding day. Jason Segel and Andy Samberg co-star, but we’re thinking Rudd will steal the show. So what makes him so darn likable? RedEye just got the (highly unscientific) results back from the lab.

LiLo's looking to work

Lindsay Lohan knows she hasn't done a movie in a while—but she's working on it.

"I'm talking to [lots of people]," she tells the April issue of Nylon magazine. "One is Sean Penn—I spoke to him again the other day. We're trying to get Seth Rogen for this project, but Seth won't call us back. So call us back, Seth, if you're reading this!"

If the whole acting thing doesn't work out, there's always modeling, right?

"I love doing photo shoots," she says. "Because that's fun for me. That's not work."

Lights dimmed for Richardson

Liam Neeson, Vanessa Redgrave and family went to Broadway as theaters dimmed their lights Thursday in tribute to Natasha Richardson, the Tony-winning actress who died from bleeding in the skull caused by the fall she took on a ski slope. The theaters dimmed their lights for one minute at about 8 p.m., The Associated Press reports.

DeGeneres

O yes she did!

Ellen DeGeneres is headed to the cover of O magazine. During Friday's episode of "Ellen," Winfrey invited DeGeneres to be on an upcoming
